"I am delighted to present before you the 18th Annual Report of our organization and the feeling on this occasion is the same as guardians have when they find their offspring's are adult and mature now. At the same time, we also feel profound grief of losing our former Chairman Shri Shrilal Ji Garg who has left us for his heavenly abode.

These 18 years have been very important for many reasons. There has been geographical expansion of the organization and we have added many new members to our fold and our resources have also expanded. The institution have been able to reach a whopping number of more than 25000 adolescent girls whom we are imparting education and life skills so that we could realize the main goals of our institutions and large number of our workers are promoting these tasks with full determination.

Jatan's core issue is 'Menstruation Management' and Jatan's Uger programme has been able to expand and establish its own identity. It has taken our campaign further ahead to include even men in this programme and make it more sensitive. In the annual camp, Kamla Bhasin, the leading light on feminism and women empowerment, appreciated our efforts and exhorted us to keep the flag flying.

Keeping in mind the overall development of children, along with Khushi Project, we have also expanded Child Development Project to Gogunda area. Along with the total development of youth and adolescent boys and girls and women, our institution is now trying to fulfil its responsibility towards development of children as well.

To have Jatan's resource and training centre - Hunarghar fully established and operational is one of our biggest achievements this year. This centre is situated in the Khad Bamania village in Railmagra and it has the capacity of providing housing, food and training to 100 participants.

We all have felt that with the expansion of works and responsibilities, the institution has emerged more mature and strong. The whole credit for this goes to the loyalty, passion and diligence of our workers. It has been possible solely because of the cooperation that we get from all of you.

I only hope to see the institution's work and its quality touching new heights in the years to come."

Thanks

Hilor : Action for Adolescent Girls Programme

Place: Kherwara (Udaipur)

Time: January 2015 to December 2017

Beneficiaries: 7563 adolescent girls, 248 ASHA, 245 Aanganwadi workers

Partners in change: WCD, Govt of Rajasthan and UNFPA, Jaipur

Hilor-The aim of the Adolescent Girl Empowerment Project is to protect the human rights of adolescent girls so that they are not married before they attain marriageable age and thus avoid pregnancy in tender age, providing security from unwanted pregnancy and improving their health, social condition and their economic efficiency.This project also helps them face the challenges of the life and make them more empowered.

This was the third and the final year of this project. While finishing the remaining tasks under this project, more focus was on providing stability to this project.

Regular meetings of group of Adolescent girls and social action

The fortnightly meetings of the group of adolescent girls were held as per the agenda. During these meetings, the module prepared by UNFPA was used. Meetings were organised all the year round and sessions based on module were held. Social Action Projects were organised by identifying how to resolve village-based different problems and one's own role in that. This campaign which was organised by the group of adolescent girls, different village-level challenges were identified by these girls and proceeded to resolve them. During these, action projects were organised on sanitation, community health, publicising government schemes, building toilets, environment concerns and other issues.

This year, more focus was on the third stage of this module which is 'financial understanding'. During this, meetings and activities were organised on common transactions, banking system, financial management during migration etc.

Celebration of Adolescent Day

Annual Adolescent Day was organised on all the 248 Anganwadi centres. During this, services related to health-nutrition test, information about government schemes, sports activities, vocational trainings, women and child development, women empowerment and other departments were linked.

On the block level adolescent fair, more than 750 adolescent girls were present. This fair was organised in Kherwada and more than 20 stalls were there through which interesting information were provided to adolescent girls that included better nutrition, health and personal hygiene.

Focus on selected groups

After the mid-term assessment, 150 groups have been selected out of the 248 who were lagging behind or during the meeting it was felt that they were not able to get the message properly. Here, old meetings were repeated and those girls who had dropped out, were brought back.

Opportunity on national-international platforms

Five young girls from Kherwada participated in an International Adolescent Conference organised in New Delhi in October and they shared their experiences with others. These girls earned much appreciations there. Before this, Abhilasha Domar has been to Washington, US where she participated in Girl-up programme.

the National Adolescent Health In Programme organised in Khajuraho, 15 adolescent girls from Jatan participated. Then in Jaipur, the whole year Jatan in participated various programmes organised there. Adolescent girls participated actively in UNFPA-sponsored campaign against child marriage called "No more child marriage in Rajasthan". These adolescent girls also participated in different workshops organised on menstruation.

Signature Campaign

Adolescent girls from Kherwada organised a long campaign against child marriage. During this, village-level awareness programmes were launched and these adolescent girls were able to secure signatures of around 12000 adolescent boys and girls against child marriage.

Coffee table book and Ramat-ghamat

Inspired by the success stories of adolescents, UNFPA published a coffeetable book on their stories. An intern from US published a collection based on local sports and activities called 'Ramat-Ghamat'. This book has been published by Jatan.

Across the river....

Even a small encouragement has the power to induce big change. If you want to understand this, then no one could be more helpful than adolescent girls of the Kheriyon ki ghati (Kherwada).

Actually, Kheriyon ki ghati is a village across the Som River and its revenue village is on the other side of the Balicha River. Years back, the killing of a man had created so much tension on both sides of the river that people from Kheriyon ki ghati could not dare cross the river to go to other side.

But when Hilor project was launched, adolescent girls decided that they will cross the river to reach Balicha to participate in this programme. The determination of 9 girls ended this gulf of separation. Though, even today, these girls have to cross this river in boats, but they have shown them the way. The animosity and the fear notwithstanding, now other people have also started crossing the river to come to Balicha to buy necessary things rather than going to some other place not conveniently approachable.

Kailash Devi who started Kanya Upavan

In the panchayat of Kailash Devi Kumavat, who is Sarpanch of Bamaniyakalan, there is a tradition of planting a tree when a girl child is born. As this is followed in the whole panchayat, soon the whole panchayat was turned into a 'Kanyaa Upvan' (girl-garden). It's not for nothing that Bamaniyankalan is called a model panchayat. Here, celebration is held when a girl child is born, saplings are planted, starting bank account in her name by panchayat and many other schemes has given a new identity to this panchayat.

Sarpanch Kailash Devi says that villagers have helped a lot in realizing this dream. She has never felt being discriminated for being women. Despite being married in this village, she has received love a daughter is showered with. Now she is trying that every woman gets this affection. The clear thinking of Kailash Devi is - when the veil will go, education will come and with that equality. Infrastructural Development

Where : Rajsamand and Udaipur Districts

Time : April 2017 - Continue

Partners in Change : Hindustan Zinc and Child fund India

Infrastructural Development

Along with sustainable development, Jatan has also stepped into the field of infrastructural development with the help of villagers in Udaipur and Rajsamand. Under this, building of modern Anganwadi centre Nandghar, installation of drinking water purification plant, and construction of toilet complexes in schools were the main works undertaken.

Nandghar has been constructed in Rajsamand's Relmagra. The construction of first 10 Nandghar in Relmagra is a significant achievement. These centres have facilities like modern Balmitra enclosures, paintings, 24x7 solar energy, purified drinking water, toilets and TVs for e-learing. For the upkeep of these centres, meaningful efforts to sensitise the local villagers have been made.

By the end of the year, places were identified for the construction of another 100 Nandghar in Rajsamand and Khamnor along with Relmagra and the same was discussed with local community and concerned panchayat.

Water purification plant

In Gogunda's tribal area, not having pure drinking water is a major problem. This results in more water-borne diseases in the area. With the help of Child Fund India, 5 places have been identified where pure drinking water plants were installed. These plants run on solar power. The s ignificant thing about installation of these plants was that material was made available by Jatan while construction and installation works were done by villagers. The responsibilities to operate and maintain these plants were entrusted to the local community. This has resulted in smooth running of all these 5 plants no complaints of wear and tear or theft has been reported in the whole year of its operation.

Toilet complex Upon enquiry, many schools in Gogunda were found without any provision of drinking water and had no toilets. After a detailed study of this issue, Jatan identified 5 schools and undertook the task of constructing a toilet complex. These toilet complexes have water 24x7, free space for adolescent girls and modern wash basins.
