Shrilal Garg "Bapuji" Chairperson Jatan Sansthan

As a messenger of peace to the United Nations –Paulo Coelho was once asked as to what role he played in bringing in inclusive development in the world, to which he beautifully answered – I was always apprehensive of people who told me that I want to change the world, protect humanity, help everyone etc. I think 'saving the world' is a baseless concept and not possible. What is possible and also is the toughest to do is to take time to look at oneself and to analyze where the real problem exists. Instead of looking around to solve problems one needs to look within.

If I speak for myself then just like Paulo, even I cannot as a single individual change the world, or change my country, my city, or even my locality. What I can change is just my home. 15 years ago when Dr. Brijwasi, laid the foundation for Jatan Sansthan and asked me to become the chairperson, I first went to a village in Railmagra. In the village I saw children playing in dirt, the youth just sitting doing nothing but wasting time and not engaged in any fruitful activity.

I returned and accepted to join Jatan Sansthan as the Chairperson.

I believe that bigger changes in the world occur from a series of very small changes at a micro level. Jatan initiated its work in a small number of villages by forming youth groups and today those youth have become the agents of change within their communities. This fills me, an ordinary Gandhian, with a feeling of content and success.

The team of Jatan Santhan is bonded like a family, and I believe this is our main strength.

The team's enthusiasm and dedication towards their work will help them reach out even to the last person standing.

With this inspiration and best wishes,

Gratefully, Shrilal Garg

Dr. Kailash Brijwasi Director Jatan Sasthan

The year 2014 has been yet another landmark in Jatan's 14 year long journey. In the year we were able to elaborate our experiences while strengthening our learning processes. Working with adolescents and elected women representatives over the years has helped Jatan build an experiential knowledge pool, which laid the foundation as Jatan got the opportunity to expand its work with adolescent girls in Kherwada block of Udaipur district and with elected women representatives in Sahada development zone of Bhilwara district.

Through the 420 teen clubs formed across 9 blocks of Udaipur and 5 blocks of Jhalawar, the adolescents are able to seek various opportunities to strengthen their life skills and decision making capacities. This has resulted in making many panchayats corruption free during the elections inclusion of women and youth in village development.

Jatan firmly believes in the fundamental principle, that unless women and youth are able participate in their full capacity in the process of development, the concept of a 'just' society is a myth. The changes visible through Jatan's interventions with adolescents and women not only justify the principle but also re-emphasize its importance.

In the year, Jatan was also able to establish a state of the art e-lab facility in Pachamta village where children and adolescents have been connected. In future the e-lab will be managed entirely by the local children and youth.

Along with the geographical expansion the Jatan family has grown too. Each new member of the staff plays an important role in building the strength of the organization.

Seeking your support to bring about a constructive change in the lives of women, children and youth,

Dr. Kailash Brijwasi

Adolescent Health and Development

Teen clubs have been formed in the districts of Udaipur and Jhalawar with adolescent girls and boys who are largely out of school. 14 blocks have been covered under this program where the focus has been on supporting these adolescents through various health, education, leadership and life skills development initiatives. It is envisioned that building their capacities will bring about a larger change in the social, political and economic development of their village.

The program aims to build interactive learning spaces for the adolescents where they are able to freely express themselves and build on their capacities and interests and they are able to develop their leadership skills and define greater roles at various levels in their families, community and villages.

The program is based on the peer educator model, where the peer educators (adolescents) form the clubs and lead the activities at the ground level. The benefits of this approach are clearly visible on the field wherein the peer educators are able to effectively become leaders and even inspire many others. 420 villages from 9 blocks of Udaipur and Jhalawar district are covered directly under the program with support of the Nehru Yuva Kendra Sangathan (NYKS) and Pravah (Delhi). Conceptualized and funded by the UNFPA, the program is being implemented in 5 states of India across 10 districts.

Teen club formation and regularized meetings

1680 peer educators were selected during the months of April and May in the year across all 420 villages.

4 peer educators- 2 girls and 2 boys (two school going and two non-school going aged between 17-19) were identified per village and through their support the larger adolescent Club formed. Each Club comprised of 15-20 adolescents. Regular meetings were initiated with the newly formed clubs. The meetings covered various topics ranging from advantages of forming a club, aspiration of the adolescents, identification of challenges and seeking solutions.

Training and capacity building of peer educators

In order to strengthen the capacities of the peer educators to effectively transact the meetings with the adolescent clubs 4 days long training workshops were conducted at the block level in the months of June-July and December – January. All the 1680 peer educators participated in these trainings where they interacted with the larger block and district level team.

During the first phase of the meetings conducted with the clubs, the topics covered included the various aspects and needs of adolescent life, identifying their dreams and working towards fulfilling them through identification of their challenges, role of adolescents in the society and in their village to improve their health and status.

Winds of change

Kailash is a member of the Gomati Teen Club in Mavli block. He is the fourth child amongst the five children in the house. He would often migrate for work to the city of Udaipur with his elder brother. During these trips he noticed the wall paintings on the walls of some of the houses in the city. Traditionally these decorative paintings of royal men and women, horses and elephants are done if there is a wedding in the house. Kailash was very inspired by these paintings and wished to learn to make them. He also recalled seeing some of these in his own village.

Kailash aspires and dreams to paint pictures on the walls with his friends at the adolescent club with beautiful strokes and bold colours. He also wishes to get appreciated for his work by other members of the community.

Kailash participated in the painting sessions conducted by his adolescent club and started to learn to make these paintings. Not later did he volunteer to make these paintings for free in a wedding house in his village. He did a fabulous job and received a gift payment of Rs 1100 for the same. His next opportunity came soon where he was called to make these paintings in another house in his village again. This time he earned Rs 2000. Kailash was unstoppable now as he went on to make paintings in 7 houses in a span of 4 months. He has also started training some of his friends from the adolescent club as they planned to get into serious business.

He fondly credits the adolescent club to help him identify and realize his dreams.

Linkages to developmental schemes

The teen club members took keen interest in linking various members of their community to the state and central welfare development schemes. They also supported members of their village to avail these schemes by filling up their forms and informing them about the details of each schemes. Toilet block construction, Indira Awas Yojana and the pension scheme where few amongst these. Their efforts were recognized and a token of appreciation awarded by the Block Development Officers.

Livelihood trainings and placements

Vocational trainings were conducted with 304 adolescents across both districts with support of government training centres and partner organizations. The various fields for trainings were based on the demand from the community and market assessment. Some of these were beauty parlour courses, mobile repairing, two wheeler vehicle repairing, residential electrical wiring, stitching and refrigeration. Few adolescent girls of Mavli, Kherwada and Bakani after receiving training conducted cascade trainings for other interested adolescent club members.

Orientation workshop with elected representatives and local leaders

In December, members of the adolescent clubs of all the 14 blocks of the 2 districts participated in a one day orientation workshop with stakeholders.

Some of the important topics raised and discussed were development of youth, village health and nutrition, gender and violence and corruption free panchayat elections.

The public attending the workshop too was invited to present their challenges and their opinions on the topics which culminated into an open and fruitful discussion.

A youth carnival

On the occasion of the national youth day, a two day long residential youth camp was organized for the youth of Udaipur and Rajsamand district. The youth from all blocks of these districts were represented who shared their concerns and sought solutions. The discussions were chaired by the District Collector Mr. Ashu Pendekar and Member of Parliament Mr. Arjunial Meena. The main objective of the workshop was to inform the youth about their constitutional rights' and duties, identification of local problems and challenges and enable them to collectively seek solutions to these problems.

Some of the issues highlighted during these discussions were - lack of life skill education, lack of technical resource centres at the block and panchayat level, poor quality or lack of toilets in the school campuses, poor relation and exchange between teachers and students in colleges and schools, lack of public transportation services, poor distribution of iron tablets in schools and colleges to adolescent girls and behavioural and regularity issues of teachers.

In order to lead change through access to technology for educational and personal advancement, Soft Choice Cooperation from Canada, under its CSR wing established an elab centre in the Pachamta village of Rajsamand district.

The main objective of the program was to provide a platform for the community especially the youth to come together and seek computer education to enhance their skills and productivity. The e-lab has been setup with 28 advanced computers and a small library. Internet connection has been established and a total of 62 students have been enrolled so far.

The center also provides various youth, women and children's groups trainings regularly. The concept was shared with the Chief Minister's office and the team met the district magistrate to look into expansion of these opportunities.

Resource center for rural adolescents

Action for adolescent girls (AAG) – A new initiative

With the support of UNFPA, a new initiative was conceptualized for initiation in January 2015, for the empowerment of adolescent girls in the Kherwada block of Udaipur district. With focus on out of school girls the initiative aims to empower girls through life skill education to build their social, economic and political assets.

Youth Migration

Seasonal migration is one of the most common phenomenon in southern Rajasthan where large number of people migrate to other states for work. In Rajsamand and Bhilwara districts through local surveys it was found that more than half of the households have at least one person from the family migrating for work, 77% of the migration is of single men where they are away from home for an average duration of 7 months in a year. Most of the migration in these areas is in the ice cream making industry, namkeen (savoury) making industry, as drivers, construction work, carpentry work and in the scrap industry.

The major activity with the migrant youth in the year was around their registrations for provision of identity cards. Since most of the migrant labour does not have a valid identity card, they face many challenges in the destination they migrate too.

This year's major achievement was when Jatan was able to successfully form and register a labour collective of construction workers. The 'Mewar Rajmistri Sangh' (Mewar Masonry Collective) comprising of 70 general body members and 14 executive members. The collective has started working independently since the first quarter of registration itself.

Labour collectives formed in Kuwaria, Railmagra and Rajsamand conducted their monthly meetings and were able to take steps towards resolving labour disputes. The collectives in the year filed 18 cases of labour disputes.

Parvaaz: A resource centre for migrant youth Gangapur, Chawandya, Kuraj and Railmagra all saw the establishment of the Parvaz centre. The key activity undertaken by the centre was to build awareness amongst youth on various issues related to migration. The challenges vary from harassment in workplaces to challenges at the domestic front. This year only two such meetings could be conducted due to last minute change in schedules of the women representatives. However for the coming year the women plan to conduct introduction and skill building workshops for the new women representatives.

Mangibai Bhil (ward Member) Pachamta

In my village the influential upper cast with their powers encroached upon the entrance road of the 'Bhil' tribal slum area. This resulted in a blockage and we were forced to take a very difficult muddy route made by river Banaas. However when this matter was raised during one of the meetings organized by Jatan's team, all the women representatives promised their support. With their support the matter was taken to the district collector who at once on the same day ordered reopening of the way.

Maternal health and nutritional services

With the high rates of maternal and new-born mortality in the state of Rajasthan, the government has been running various welfare schemes to address the issue. While the schemes have been very beneficial a large gap still exists in the effective implementation and outreach to pregnant women. Some of these schemes are the Janani Shishu Suraksha Yojana, Janani Suraksha Yojana, Prime Minister's Ghee Yojana, Kalewa Yojana and the Shubh Lakshmi Yojana. In order to ensure larger impact and outreach of the schemes and programs Jatan conducted various research and advocacy activities in the year.

Research in Kuraj: In partnership with CHETNA (Ahmadabad) a research was conducted to evaluate and assess the health related services in 13 villages of Railmagra block in Rajsamand. 4 sub centres, Kuraj PHC and Railmagra CHC were covered during the study. The parameters studied included the methods used by ANMs and ASHA workers to conduct examinations of pregnant women, the conditions of health facilities based on outreach, cleanliness, maternal health services etc. A discussion was also facilitated regarding the maternal health services in the CHC of Railmagra. The final report was made and shared with the health department of Government of Rajasthan.

Jatan also initiated and took forward discussions on the role RMRS could play in improving the status of maternal and newborn health in the Kuraj and Railmagra.

Advocacy with health and medical representatives: Jatan shared its work and research outcomes with the medical and health representatives participating in the state level medical and health representatives gathering organized in Udaipur city where officials looked into the findings.

The story of change

First delivery at the Junda SC

The Health Centre at Junda had been established for a last 02 years but had not conducted a single delivery yet. During one of the meetings organized by Jatan, it was understood that since a small stretch of a graveyard was connected to the centre and needed to be crossed, women did not want to go there for delivery.

This issue was raised in the gram sabha and discussed with the pregnant women. The major decision taken was to shift the graveyard stretch to ensure women feel safe to access the health centre. On 8th March the first delivery took place at the centre where 'Anand' a boy was born.

Public hearing and Advocacy: On 20th September a public hearing was organized in Railmagra on the various government health schemes and challenges faced in receiving benefits. More than 300 women had problems of either not receiving benefits or not being linked to the schemes. The platform helped them convey their issues and offered an opportunity for the government officials to review the various schemes.

The report on health services in Kuraj and Railmagra was shared at various meetings organized at the village level with the community. Discussions were conducted with the various VHSNC committees at the village level and solutions sought.

A SAFE MENSTRUAL HEALTH CAMPAIGN

UGER (meaning 'New Beginning' in Mewari language) is a women's empowerment campaign to create awareness and break the silence on the subject of menstruation. A large part of the campaign is dedicated to conducting research and awareness workshops around menstrual health and sustainable menstrual management. Seminars are conducted with school and college children and youth, women's groups and even government officials and staff.

In the year almost 5000 adolescents, youth, women and field workers were covered through awareness building activities. The main topics of discussion revolve around the changes during puberty, breaking silence on the subject of menstruation, addressing the myths and taboos surrounding the subject, the various products and their understanding, focus on healthier and responsible environment friendly ways of menstrual management.

An important activity of the campaign is training and supporting a women's group in Udaipur slums to produce reusable, washable, cotton cloth menstrual pads. UGER promotes these pads for a healthy, eco-friendly and sustainable option for menstrual management. In the year UGER has also joined Sustainable Menstruation India, an online forum of over 5000 women (and growing everyday) to discuss, share and adapt sustainable menstrual management techniques like cloth pads demonstrating a clear change in mindset, a demand for healthier products and respect for reuse.

UGER also partnered with Menstrual Hygiene Day (menstrualhygieneday.org), which is a global platform for partners across all sectors to engage in action, advocacy and knowledge-sharing around menstrual hygiene management.

UGER pads are proudly copyleft in design and people across the globe are invited to learn, adapt and create their own Uger pads. The year also saw the Uger women's group training other NGO's and social entrepreneurs on stitching the Uger pads and replicating the design in their own work areas in Rajsamand and Udaipur district.

UGER pads also boosted sales internationally in the year with sales in Canada, USA, UK and South Africa.

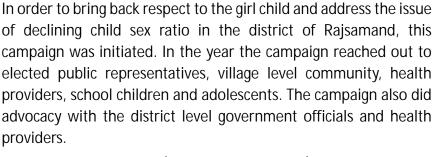

With a total sale of over 2000 pads and touching over 5000+ women and men in the year, Uger has doubled its growth from the previous year.

UGER online

Uger pads also saw a rise in demand nationally and internationally through improved accessibility as the pads went online. We are now available on craftsvilla.com, eBay.com, Etsy.com, storeenvy.com, zibbet.com. The pads are expected to arrive on other popular online market places too in the following year.

Betiyon ki Baatien:

Campaign to address the declining child sex ratio

Shrishtidayani Samman (Honor to the mother): This is an honour certificate provided to couples who have one or two daughters and do not plan to have any more children with the hope to have a boy. This year 80 such couples were awarded this honour and until now Jatan has honoured 500 such couples. The certificates are distributed in a block level ceremony with signatures of the district collector.

Baby Shower Ceremony: This is a cultural ceremony performed for women when they are pregnant. However, in places where discrimination is practiced against the girl child, this ceremony is often not performed. Jatan performs this ceremony twice a year at the community health center, by inviting women who are pregnant (based on the records of registered pregnant women from the ASHA workers). The women are given gifts marking celebrations for the child in her womb irrespective of the sex of the child. The ceremony aims to reduce the bias against the girl child and bring equality for the female/male child in the eyes of the parents. In the year more than 100 women were covered under this initiative.

Media Workshop: A media workshop was organized in the month of August with support of the partner organizations to draw attention and focus on the seriousness of the issue of declining child sex ratio. Jatan participated for the third time in a row at the republic day parade in Rajsamand with its demonstration on the issue. Film shows, slogan writing, local community discussions and discussion on the issue in all village level meetings were some of the other important activities carried out to draw focus on the issue.

Expression of the self!

On the 8th of January, in its second year, a poster making competition was organized beside the Rajsamand Lake. Around 450 children from various schools and colleges participated in the activity making it a grand success. Starting from 7am, the children were divided into two groups of seniors' and juniors'. The theme of the activity was the same as the last time focused on depicting the various dreams and aspirations of a girl. The activity was supported by the 'Women and Child Department' and the 'Archaeological Survey of India', Rajsamand office.

Apna Jatan Kendra

The Apna Jatan Kendra/centre has been running in the Neemuch Kheda Basti of Udaipur since October 2010 to support children from disadvantaged economic backgrounds. The focus lies on children who are out of school. The center provides learning opportunities to such children and also supports school going children through after school classes for academic support. In the current year the center supports 56 children. The Apna Jatan center since inception has directly supported 312 children and reached out to 1200 children and adolescents through various activities.

The center presently offers the following services - a crèche and preschool center, an alternative learning center for non-school going children and a learning support center for school going children. The center also focuses on main-streaming children back to formal education and also supporting adolescents in the area through awareness building and counseling support.

Crèche and preschool center: With a large number of working parents with children below the age of 5, the adult siblings of the house have to stay back at home taking care of the younger ones. To ensure that all children are able to connect with the center and also go to school, the center initiated this service. The children who are part of this program also receive a nutritional meal made at the center. They are engaged in various activities to build their cognitive and motor skills along with focus on their health through regular health check-ups. Rinku is 12 years old, and had never seen a school until 3 years ago. When Rinku became a part of Apna Jatan centre, she came across as a very bright student and the teachers at Apna Jatan wanted to support her study further. However, Rinku's family did not want her to go to school and she had to stay back home and take care of her younger sibling. Her father was not interested in sending her to school and her mother was a daily wage worker away from home the whole day. When Apna Jatan offered to take care of both the children, the parents agreed and eventually Rinku joined school. Today she is in third standard and has received a first division in her studies. She is very happy to go to school.

Tarang'14

Improving Nutritional Status: To improve the nutritional status of children and adolescents who are out of school and do not have access to a midday meal, Jatan has been providing them with a nutritional diet based on a colour regime. In the year 25 children and adolescents were covered on a daily basis through the program to include the fruits, lentils, vegetables, milk, dry fruits, nuts and jaggery in their daily diet.

Computer Education: Computer learning classes have been organized continuously for the third year during the summer break for adolescents at Apna Jatan centers. In the year 27 adolescents benefitted from these classes.

Monthly school visits and review meetings: Monthly assessment meetings and school visits are made with children mainstreamed in school. Their progress is discussed with their parents and during the community meetings emphasis is laid upon ensuring education for children and their overall development focused on health, hygiene and nutrition.

Exposure and recreational visits: Every month the centers children are taken out for some recreational tour in and around Udaipur city, this year the children were taken to Sajjangarh biological park, Shilpgram, Udaipur city lakes, city palace, film festival, Chittorgarh fort and Haldighati for an exposure visit.

This year in the month of July, Apna Jatan celebrated its annual function - Tarang. The function was attended by local community members and government officials. Tarang started with a presentation of group dance by the preschool and crèche children. All the children from Apna Jatan center participated in the event through solo and group dancing, singing, mono act plays, street plays etc. An intern with Apna Jatan presented the annual report during the function. The celebration of Tarang was preceded by a summer camp for the children where in they learned to make various articles and craft. All these were put on display. The executive director of Jatan Dr. Kailash Brijwasi encouraged the children at the event.

Uddan Changing libes through education

In Railmagra, Jatan adopted 6 girls in 2011 to support their education. The families of these girls due to various reasons were not in favour of the girls continuing with their education. Jatan's efforts to convince the parents to let their girls study further proved successful and the parents consented to Jatan supporting their education.

In the year one of the girls dropped out from the group as her father was now economically stable and willing to continue her education on his own. She was replaced by another economically disadvantaged girl.

Learning Support: For 5 days in a week after school, the girls are provided learning support on various subjects at the Jatan's centre through a teacher.

Health and Nutritional support: The girls are provided with one nutritional meal after school which includes fruits, beaten wheat, sprouts, milk etc, to fulfil their nutritional needs. Regular health checkups are also organized for the girls and awareness building activities done for them to understand the changes in the body especially during adolescence. A yearly full body check up is also conducted for the girls.

Career Counselling: The girls are encouraged to make informed career choices. They are supported with information as per their interest and are also introduced to local successful women who went on to make meaningful careers in their life. This acts as an encouragement to the girls and opens up a sky of opportunities for them to consider.

Overall Development: Art and craft, spoken English, general knowledge, sports, movie shows are all part of the larger curriculum for the girls enabling their overall development.

Bimonthly exposure visits: In order to expose the girls to various places of relevance and importance in their locale the girls are taken for quality excursions. In the year they visited Shiplgram – a national craft Mela, Chittorgarh fort, Rajsamand district hospital, Municipal Corporation, the District Collectorate etc.

When the program head of John Deere Foundation, Mr. Nate Clark, visited Railmagra, he specifically interacted with all the girls over lunch where the girls shared their experiences and aspirations with him and presented him handmade greeting cards. They were very happy to interact with him and share their stories.

Skilled based Education

In order to access the learning levels of children in the primary and high schools in the state and to improve the overall status of quality of education being imparted, Jatan with the support of the community and the local elected representatives, initiated an educational survey in the panchayats of Sahada in Bhilwara district and Bakani in Jhalawar district from November 2014 – February 2015. In both the blocks of the 2 districts a list of all the government schools was made and a detailed assessment conducted based on various indicators like exchange between teachers and students, facilitates in the schools, attendance vs. registration of children, equipment available to facilitate learning, status of school management committee (SMC) etc.

98% of the government schools and 100% Anganwadis in the two blocks were covered by the survey. The schools Principals, teachers, members of the SMCs and Anganwadi workers were all contacted for data collection. Technical support for the survey was provided by Prajayatna, a grass root organization, Jaipur.

The results of the survey were shared with the community during a block level workshop where the roles of the community members, SMC members and the panchayat members were looked into for improving the situation and open discussions were done to resolve challenges. The panchayat samiti representative, sarpanch, secretary, primary education department officials and SMC members were also participated in these meetings.

48% panchayats do not have a higher secondary schools

57% girls and 40% boys drop out of school before the completion of 10th standard

31% primary schools are run by one single teacher

83% primary schools do not have electricity

41% schools do not have a playground and 49% do not even have a 4 wall enclosure

29% schools do not have any drinking water facility

12% schools run on non-registered land

17% schools are running in dilapidated buildings

11% schools do not get regular health check-ups done

78% schools have defunct SMCs existing only on paper

85% toilets in schools are either locked or in very dirty conditions

The number of higher education schools in a panchayat drops to almost half as compared to primary schools. For example in Sahada there are 79 primary schools, 4 8 upper primary schools, 25 secondary schools and 10 higher secondary schools. In the scenario, all the children passing out of primary school never get a seat in the higher schools and hence drop out.

JIVA also focussed on strengthening the SMCs as most of these committees needed reinstallation and JIVA worked on it while also publishing a manual and guideline for the training, strengthening and guiding SMCs.

Due to an increased demand from the community in the year two additional education resource centres were started taking the total number of centers to 6. 452 children and adolescents have been directly covered through these centers. 105 school drop outs have been mainstreamed back to schools and 28 Bal Sansad (child parliament) meetings have been organized.

During the interaction with school students two main issues were identified – One was the weak relation and exchange between teachers and students and the second was the very poor condition of the class rooms. In the situation JIVA took some immediate steps in the 3 main schools of the panchayat where it elected a student friend/leader with involvement of the community. With support of the community and students and clearance from the panchayat the class room and school renovation work was initiated.
